

In the first half of 2014 our company Ingram Micro Slovakia participated in the project Ekoprofit. This is an internationally successful consultation program for businesses in order to reduce operating costs and environmental impact through cleaner production methodology, principally financed by the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF) in the CBC Programme Slovakia-Austria 2007-2013. Within the project, we focused on reducing operating costs and improving waste management.

In this project Ingram Micro Slovakia focused on the implementation of environmental measures, where appropriate, improvement of waste management and reduction of operational costs of the organization. The project provided a space for analysis of input data and the design of appropriate measures and inspiration for other activities in the environmental performance of the organization.
