

Ingram Micro Mobility certified by the International Security Association TAPA for its Slovakian Distribution Centre

LONDON AND SLOVAKIA, Dec. 19, 2013 – Brightpoint Slovakia s.r.o. (“Ingram Micro Mobility”), an indirect subsidiary of Ingram Micro Inc. (NYSE: IM), the world’s largest wholesale technology distributor and a global leader in IT supply-chain and mobile device lifecycle services, announced that the international security association TAPA (Transported Asset Protection Association) awarded Ingram Micro Mobility with the “TAPA A certificate” for its facility in Slovakia through an independent on-site audit and certification process.

TAPA is a unique forum that unites global manufacturers, logistics providers, freight carriers, law enforcement agencies and other stakeholders with the common aim of reducing losses from international supply chains. Today this organization has more than 600 members in Europe, the Middle East, Africa, America and Asia.

The security requirements of this association have been approved worldwide as the industry standard for cargo operations and transportation security.

Herbert Hufsky, vice president, warehouse operations, Ingram Micro Europe commented, “We are pleased with this latest achievement, which clearly demonstrates our continued investment in securing our customers’ inventory and equipment, as well as the safety of our associates and the assets within our facilities.”

Jac Currie, president of Ingram Micro Mobility Europe, added, “Ingram Micro operates state of the art supply chain facilities across Europe in support of our mobile device lifecycle services. The certification of our Slovakian facility demonstrates our focus to maintain world-class security, processes and procedures in our supply chain.”
